

Privacy Policy:

Last Modified: August 25th, 2019

Occuspace Inc. (“Occuspace,” “we” or “us”) is committed to protecting your privacy. This Privacy Policy (“Policy”) explains how we collect, use, and share any personal information we may collect from visitors to our website, mobile apps and customer locations we service. By accessing or using our Service, you signify that you have read, understood and agree to our collection, storage, use and disclosure of your personal information as described in this Privacy Policy.

Information Collected About You:

Occuspace never stores any personally identifiable information unless a name or contact information was directly submitted to us through our App or Website. We do not sell any personally identifiable information under any circumstances and only share personally identifiable information with third-party service providers when necessary.

Between our different products, we can collect a variety of personal information about users of our products or Services. Personal information is information that can be directly associated with a specific person or entity, such as a name, address, telephone number, email address, or information about activities directly linked to that person.

Our definition of personal information does not include “aggregate” information. Aggregate information is data we collect about a group or category of services or customers from which individual customer identities have been removed. Aggregate data helps us understand trends and customer needs so that we can better consider new services or tailor existing services to customer desires. The aggregate data also might be purchased by or shared with a third party.

Here are the types of personal and other information we collect. You should refer to the rest of this Policy to see how we use, disclose, and protect that information:

- Information You Give Us On Our Website
 - We collect information you give us when you submit an inquiry on our website or use our Services. For example, you may provide us with an email address when requesting information or access to services.
- Automatically Collected Information Using Occuspace or Waitz App (Waitz App is owned and operated by Occuspace)
 - The Waitz App uses Google Analytics to detect information such as phone operating system and how often a user uses the app, but the Occuspace App does not collect any personally identifiable information or location information through the App.
- Automatically Collected Information from Website
 - We automatically receive certain types of information when using our Services, using Google Analytics. When you visit the Occuspace website, our systems automatically collect your IP address, type of browser used, operating system, and time zone.

- Automatically Collected Information from Occuspace Devices When In Serviced Location
 - When in a Serviced Location that utilizes Occuspace, our hardware devices may see a MAC address and signal strength indicator from any device that has WiFi or Bluetooth enabled. MAC address information is immediately and irreversibly hashed (a process to ensure the real address can never be seen and a random one is generated) before being stored on the device and then the hashed MAC address is deleted after a maximum of 24 hours on the device. After hashing, the MAC address is no longer considered personal information.

In a Business Agreement, our customer is a business or other entity purchasing service. In the course of that relationship you may provide us certain personal information.

How We Share Personal Information:

We may share your personal information in the instances described below.

- Most commonly, we aggregate, or strip information of personally identifying characteristics, and then share that aggregated or anonymized information with Customers and third-parties.
- We may share your personal information with third-party service providers or business partners who help us deliver or improve our service, for example, providers who help us process payments, send email or postal mail, provide back-office services, or measure site traffic. These providers will be given access to your personal information as is reasonably necessary to perform their function under reasonable confidentiality terms.
- We may share or disclose your personal information if we determine, in our sole discretion, that we are required to do so under applicable law or regulatory requirements, or if we reasonably believe disclosure is necessary to prevent harm or financial loss, or in connection with preventing fraud or illegal activity, and/or to enforce our Terms of Use.
- We may share your personal information with corporate subsidiaries we own or control.
- We reserve the right to transfer any information we collect in the event we sell or transfer all or a portion of our business or assets (including any shares in the company) or any portion or combination of our products, services, businesses and/or assets. Should such a transaction occur (whether a divestiture, merger, acquisition, bankruptcy, dissolution, reorganization, liquidation, or similar transaction or proceeding), we will use reasonable efforts to ensure that any transferred information is treated in a manner consistent with this Privacy Policy.

Customer Data:

Our Service provides data to Customers which provides our Customers with real-time analytics and tools to create a better experience for their end users and lower carbon emissions for their buildings. Our Service can be used by Customers through a Occuspace or Occuspace mobile app or web portal, or integrated into our Customer's systems such as their own mobile app, website, or other application. When a Customer uses our Service, the Customer's app or website may collect personal information from end users ("Customer Data"). This Customer Data is owned and controlled by our Customers, and any Customer Data that we maintain or process we consider to be strictly confidential. We collect and process Customer Data solely on behalf of our Customers, and in accordance with our agreements with the customers. We do not use or disclose Customer Data except as authorized and required by our customers and provided for in our agreements with our customers.

Please note that this Privacy Policy applies only to the data collection and use practices of Occuspace's website and mobile app, and does not apply to Customer Data or to the data collection practices of our third party Customers that use our Service. It is always a good idea to carefully read the privacy policy of each mobile app you install and use on your mobile device to be sure you understand the app's data collection and use practices.

Data Collected through the Service. When going to a Occuspace Customer location that has Occuspace Services enabled, a Occuspace device (small device that uses Bluetooth and WiFi technology to analyze RF signal data in the area) may see the MAC address, signal strength indicator (RSSI), and time stamp of any electronic device in the area that has Bluetooth or WiFi turned on. As mentioned previously, the MAC address is encrypted during the 2 minute time period it can be on the device before being irreversibly hashed, making it not personally identifiable. That hashed data is then sent to Occuspace servers and deleted off the device. We use this information to better understand how many people are in a room or building throughout the day so our Customers can provide a better service to their employees or customers by letting them know how busy a place is in real-time, optimizing their space utilization, or reducing their GHG emissions. Occuspace devices never collect information such as a name, mobile phone number, email address, or other contact information from our Customer's end users. Occuspace servers never see or store MAC address information, and never make any attempt to connect the data we collect to a specific person. If you do not want the Occuspace beacon to observe your mobile device, you can turn off your device Bluetooth and WiFi.
